Centre Manager Comments

The RAF Int An Apprenticeship Centre currently delivers a Higher Apprenticeship in Intelligence Operations, comprising a Level 4 Diploma in Intelligence Operations and Level 4 Certificate in the Knowledge of Defence Intelligence Operations. This apprenticeship is offered to all Phase 2 airmen and women. The Higher Apprenticeship in Intelligence Operations was launched in September 2015 and is the highest level of Apprenticeship Scheme available within any of HM Armed Forces. This scheme offers Phase 2 trainees the chance to gain a civilian recognised qualification based on evidence gathered during trade training and then during their first posting. Qualified assessors and verifiers work with the apprentices, assessing work and offering guidance and advice along the way, ensuring full support is given to them in order to achieve their Higher Apprenticeship in Intelligence Operations. The skills that are essential to them throughout their RAF careers are learned and developed, providing a confidence to the learner allowing them to know they have the competence for their chosen specialisation.

Apprentice Comments

"Having the chance to the gain a civilian recognised qualification while conducting my day to day work was a fantastic opportunity"

"The Apprenticeship didn't just give me a civilian qualification; it also taught me life skills which have an everyday use"

"Throughout the Apprenticeship the encouragement and support I received from the teaching staff and the assessors was first class and helped me achieve the qualification"
